BEALTH OF THE QUEEN AND THE PRINCE OF WALES - COURT ECONOMY - THE COMMAND OF THE INDIAN ARMY-DONCASTER AND

THE SALES OF YEARLINGS - MRS. LANGTRY'S TRIUMPH IN THE PROV. INCES-PERSONAL AND SOCIAL.

(BY CABLE TO THE TRIBUNE.) Copyright; 1889; By The New-York Tribune. London, Sept. 16.—The Queen has been very much better since she came to Balmoral. Her sciatica has for a moment gone and she walks better and with nore ease than for some months. THE PRINCE OF WALES IN SCOTLAND.

The Prince of Wales is looking much better and stronger since his return from Homburg. He is still fame, but his leg has resumed its normal size and he can walk fairly well. He was rather lame at Aberdeen on his arrival there the other day, but assured every one that he felt much better. There will be deer grives during his stay at Mar Lodge, but he will not take much part in them, as absolute rest and quiet are enjoined by the doctors to restore him to his usual thirly good health.

PRINCESS BEATRICE AS A WHIP. Princess Reatrice has been driving herself a great al this year at Balmoral in a smart cart, in which she drives a very high-stepping pony. She is a very good whip, and she and Princess Alice of Hesse are enstantly to be met along Decside. Sometimes she drives Prince Henry's phacton, but more usually is met in the cart. All these amusements are a great nnovation in the Royal circle, for the Queen enter tains very strong opinions as to modern ways and fashions for women. The cart driven by Princes Beatrice is one of the best evidences of how much the uthful society which she has around her has modified the Queen's views. There was a story that each new maid of honor was told by the Queen that she uld not allow fringes or ulsters to be worn. But every one now who is of the age and size to do so wears an ulster, and the rules about fringes have RETRENCHMENT AT COURT. The Lord Chamberlain and Lord Steward will in be obliged to content themselves with 500 pounds a year each, instead of 2,000 pounds, and some subordinate offices will be abolished and others amaigamated. THE COMMAND IN INDIA.

A subject at present exercising the speculations of military men is the question of Sir Frederick Roberts's successor as Commander-in-Chief in India. It is widely reported that the Duke of Connaught is anxious to hold the chief command at Simla for a space of at least two years, previous to taking up the mantle of Commander-in-Chief at home when the time comes. Against this arrangement there is said to be strong objection, on the ground of its robbing the Indian Army of one of its highest prizes. But no Indian officer would grudge the Duke of Connaught a tw years' term of office, as it would be certain to be to the advantage of the Indian Army eventually, when he comes to the Horse Guards, where many important questions are continually arising and require to be handled by one who has a practical knowledge of what the wants and peculiarities of the Indian service

MR. FITZWILLIAM'S FATAL FALL.

Mr. Fitzwilliam, whose tragle death threw a gloor ever many house parties at Doncaster, had probably met with and recovered from many more serious accidents than any other man of his age. He had only arrived from Ireland a few days before his fatal welcome his guests to Wontworth. He was immensely popular in the district.

THE RACES AT DONCASTER.

The Doncaster meeting was not, from a social point of view, so brilliant as usual, for the Prince of Wales, who has more than once been the guest of Mr Christopher Sykes, at Brantingham Thorpe, and of Mr. Chaplin, at Blankney, did not pay his anticipated visit to Welbeck, and the number of private specials. always a good test of what is doing at Doncaster, was below the average. Sir Tatton and Lady Sykes had a large party at Doncaster itself, but were deprived of the presence of the Dowager Duchess of Montrose who was sufficiently indisposed on Frisdy for her husband to be telegraphed for. Any lack of "go" at the races was amply made up for by the stir and animation of the sale at the paddocks, where Mr. Tat tersall and his customers had Colonel North to in no small degree for the magnificent prices obtained for some of the yearlings, no fewer than fifteen of which ran into four figures. Colonel North gave 4,000 guineas for one colt and 2,500 for another, both by St. Simon. For two other yearlings he gave 3.900, and he paid Mr. Chaplin 3,000 guineas for mare named Burgundy, to say nothing of several other lots which cost him such bourgeois prices as 700 and 800 guineas. But where in all this was Herr Hirch, who, if reports be credited, has purchased Houghton, the next property to Sandringham, from Lord Cholmondeley for 300,000 pounds? His traine and porter made no sign, being, perhaps, quite content with having secured one such bargain as Vasistis in a single season, and most of the other high-priced year lings were bought by Sir Robert Jardine, who took four and by Captain Machell. These are buyers who help the breeders' average. Sir Tatton Syles had, as usual, a capital sale. For if the brother of the Derby winner erry Hampton, did not reach the reserve price, seven others made over 5,000 guineas, and the average, more than 700 guineas, is one which would have caused old Sir Tatton to rub his eyes and ask himself whether this was not all a pleasant dream.

CARRIAGES FOR THE EMPEROR OF MOROCCO. Two magnificent carriages, of Oriental design, have just been built in London for the Emperor of Morocco. One is hansom cab of green and gold, which is to be drawn by led mules, as there is no driver's seat. The other is a palanquin, which is to be carried by two mules instead of human bearers. The interior is sumptuously decorated in green silk, and the seat is to arranged that the Emperor can sit crosslegged, if he is so disposed. On the right side is a little cupboard, which contains a four-chambered revelver, with gilt barrels, and a receptacle for ammunition. On the left are a sword-stick and other weapons, also a letterbox and writing-stand. The palanquin is ingeniously made so that springs and wheels can at any time be

"THE TIMES" AGAIN IN COURT.

"The Times" paid forty shillings in court as an enswer to Sir Morrell Mackenzie's action for libel. But the case will be fought out to the bitter end, and is expected to come on for a hearing after the long vacation. Sir Charles Russell and Mr. Asquith will appear for the plaintiff.

A SUCCESS FOR MRS. LANGTRY

Mrs. Langtry has, it seems, made a great nit at Wolverhampton with "Esther Sandraz," but has found it expedient to replace "Mme. Pompadour," the afterpiece, with "My Uncle's Will," in which her last re-cruit, Mr. Arthur Bourchier, plays his part with great success. On Saturday evening Mrs. Langiry produced "As You Like It," with Mr. Bouchier as the Melancholy Jaques. This week she moves to Leicester, where the races are likely to ensure a large audience. On the 23d inst., she opens at Brighton Whenever she leaves her hotel Mrs. Langtry is pitt lossly mobbed by a crowd of well-meaning admirers and her new leading gentleman comes in for a share of these popular "ovations."

THE MONUMENT OF THE 150TH NEW-YORK VOL-UNTEERS TO BE DEDICATED TO-DAY.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Sept. 16 (Special).—A special train from Highland on the West Shore road this orning took a large number of the old 150th New York Volunteers, organized in Dutchess County, to Gettysburg, where the regimental monument is to be dedicated to-morrow. Among those who will take part in the ceremonies are General Ketcham and his daughter, Miss Ethel B. Ketcham, who will unveil the monument; Colonel S. V. R. Cru ger, Chaplain E. O. Bartlett, General A. B. Smith, John M. Krauth, Judge Henry A. Gildersleeve, of New-York, who is to deliver the oration; Benson J. Lossing, General H. H. Lockwood, Captain W. R. Woodin and Captain Obed Wheeler.

Of the money for the monument, $2,500 was raised by subscription and $1,500 by legislative appropriation. The monument was designed by G. S. of this cify, and constructed by Van Wick & Collins. It is a simple shaft of Quincy granite, modelled on the lines of a tower. The base is nine feet square, the apex six feet square. The sides are panelled and ed with the coat-of-arms of New-York State, corps badges, the name of the regiment, the names of corps badges, the name of the regiment, the names of those killed and wounded, the principal battles in which the regiment took part, etc. The stone stands hear the middle of the regimental line, where on July 3, 1863, the Confederates failed in an attempt to turn the right of the Union army.

Gettysburg, Penn., Sept. 16 (Special).—Thirty survivors of the 43d New-York Regiment, from Brooklyn. arrived here this evening; 300 members of the 150th New-York, from Poughkeepsic, are expected to-night; and the members of the 130th Regiment and Battery L, from Rochester, will arrive in the morning. They all come to dedicate monuments on the battlefield.

SESSION OF THE ROYAL ORDER OF SCOTLAND. The Royal Masonic Order of Scotland for th United States held its annual session yesterday in the Scottish Rite Hall, Twenty-ninth-st, and Madisonave. He made no appointments yesterday, and will make none at present. Mr. Mitchell remained at the -Attorney's office for only a part of the day.

THE OPENING OF "KAJANKA. columbus, Ohio, Sept. 16 (Special).—"Kajanka," the speciacle which the Miller Brothers have been at work on for several months, was produced last night t the Grand Opera House, in the presence of a large audience, and was enthusiastically received. is in three acts and nine scenes, all of which are transformation scenes of an elaborate character. In the second act is introduced the triumphal march of Kajanka and a Nautch dance. The London Galety dancers, four in number, appear in a characteris tic dance, which was loudly applicated by the audience. Then followed a symmasium scene with a grand march, after which the Donazettis are seen in an acrobatic act, and Edith Craske, age sixteen, in a transformation dance, which was seven times encored. last act is chiefly pantomimic. The chief hits were made by the Gaiety girls, the Donazettis, Edith Craske, George D. Melville, William Ruge and the Allen sisters Kajanka will be seen in New-York at Niblo's Garden on December 2 for a run of ten weeks.

A PLEASURE PARTY IN THE CATSKILLS. Kingston, N. Y., Sept. 16 (Special).-George Batcheller, First Assistant Secretary of the Treasury accompanied by a party, arrived here this morning as the guest of Thomas Couell. Though the weather unfavorable the party was taken up in the Catskills for a brief trip by a special train on the Ulster and Delaware Railroad, going first to the Grand Hotel on Summit Mountain. This resort was practically closed to the public to night after a most suc-cessful season. Only two families are left there to night, one being that of A. H. Morris, who awaits the arrival of his yacht in the Hudson.

OPENING OF THE INTERSTATE FAIR.

THE FIRST DAY OF THE EXHIBITION IN ELMIRA-PEOPLE CROWDING INTO THE CITY. Elmira, N. Y., Sept. 16 (Special).-The Interstate Fair was formally opened to the public this fore-The weather was not propitious for a big crowd on the opening day, and therefore the number of visitors was small. From dawn to the closing of the gates to-night there was a continuous stream of vehicles bearing exhibits of various kinds, besides fundreds of horses, cattle, sheep and swine, and to night it is safe to say that the exhibits are fully up to the expectations of the most sanguine. An army of men were at work on walks, the grand stand roof and on small buildings. The first day's programme, a grand dress representation of booth ex-hibits in the great exposition building, was omitted, the aisles being crowded with goods and workmen The engines in Machinery Hall were started, setting in motion the hundreds of achines ready to be seen in actual operation. About o'clock rain set in, and the trial parade of live stock and the running and trotting races programme were postponed. The hotels and boarding-houses are well filled. The police are busy, and lively times are looked for in the next ten days. To morrow will practically be the opening day for vistors, and with good weather, which appearances noticate to-night, a large attendance is looked for.

MRS. W. D. SLOANE'S DANCE - HARE AND

HOUNDS CHASE IN THE AFTERNOON. Lenox, Mass., Sept. 16 (Special).-The dance given by Mrs. W. D. Sloane in her new ballroom this evening was one of the most enjoyable that has ever been given at Lenox. There were a number of heavy showers in the course of the evening, but every or in Lenox attended the dance. From 10 o'clock until 12 and even later the carriages kept coming and many handsome tollets were seen. The german was led by Thomas Howard and Mrs. Sloane. Among those seen at the dance were Colonel W. Seward Webb, Herbert D. Robbins, Miss Berryman, Miss Post and Miss Roberts, all of whom are visiting the Sloanes; Mrs. W. C. Whitney, W. H. SAMUEL PESSENDEN STRADILY RECOVERING. The many friends of Samuel Fessenden, member of the Republican National Committee from Con necticut, will learn with pleasure that he is steadily recovering from the injury he received on Mr. Wanamaker's yacht off Cape May. In a dictated letter to a friend in this city Mr. Fessenden says of his con-dition: "However it may be at other times, when a man is flat on his back and suffering more or les pain all the time, there is no place like home. Here I am, likely to be for some little time, but I am quite content, since my physicians assure me that I shall come around all right and without any permanent I am still confined to my bed, where I shall probably have to remain for a fortnight at least. They tell me that at the end of that time I shall be They tell me that at the end of that time I shall be able to go about with the aid of crutches, and as the judges have assured me that I shall not be called upon to try any cases until I feel entirely able to do so, I feel that I am pretty well off, after all. Indeed, considering the way I fell, and the possibilities of a more lasting injury. I have every reason to feel satisfied with the present outlook."

IN FAVOR OF WOMEN AS PREACHERS. Chicago, Sept. 16 (Special). Considerable sensation and some applause was occasioned at the Congregational Ministers' Assembly in this city to-day by a paper by the Rev. Clayton E. ONE WAY TO GET GOOD MILK. From The Buffalo Courier.

From The Buffalo Courier.

It was quite early when the Arounder journeyed homeward the other morning. Day was just breaking and the milk wagons rumbled noisily over the pavements. One of these early workers was stopped before a house when two "gentlemen in hard luck" approached it. Saluting the milkman one said producing a tin pail: "Glmme two quarts o' milk." As the milkman took the pail he continued: "It's for the City Chemist."

"Sh!" interposed his fellow tramp, "he said you mustn't tell who it's for."

But the milkman's eyes lit up with a knowing look as he filled the pail with choicest cream. So elated, in fact, was he with his own supposed cumning that he did not think about payment until the two were out of sight. A few blocks further the Arounder came upon the colaborers regaining on rolls and cream. "We had to get up durned early to work it," was the remark he heard.

SELECTIONS FROM THE MAIL.

THE TRANSFER OF LIEUTENANT DUVALL. A PLEA FOR HIS RETENTION AS MANAGER OF

THE ARMY LIFE INSURANCE FUND. to the Editor of The Tribune. Sir: From the time the army was organized until quite recently there has been no progressive spirit to keep pace with the march of fruitful events which have been for some time transpiring to make the United States, in law, mechanics, arts and sciences, as well as in social matters, a benefit to the human family. A great blessing, as well as a sound principle, has been established by the officers of the United States Army, in establishing a system of life insurance of their own, for the benefit of officers' widows and their dependent families, whereby the beneficiaries receive, in all cases of the deaths of the inscred, $5,000. This system provides a safe and reliable insurance, with absolute confidence in the berth-room to accommodate the members of the exinsuring power, a confidence which has long been shaken by the failure or insolvency of established insurance companies in civil life. It provides against must sail. immediate suffering or humiliation on the part of the wives and children, or other dependents left behind them by our worthy and brave officers at their death; and is a guarantee against much of the sufferings and trials which have heretotore fallen to the lot of gifted. refined and tenderly reared women who have given their hands, and all that they are, so creditable to our suntry and its civilization, to the brave defenders of our Flag and the Nation's cause.

This system of insurance has been carefully worked out within the last few years, under the care and supervision, marked by high integrity, business tack and talent, from a mere pretension in chaos to a complete, efficient and practical condition, by tenmit William P. Duvall, 5th United States Artillery, who had been detailed for the duty by a law of Congress, arting under General Drum, late Adjutant-General of the Army, and Commissary-General Robert S. Macfeely, U. S. A., with three other officers of the Army, the whole number constituting a board of officers and a reserve fund of more than $100,000 result mainly due to the care and trustworthiness of Licutenant Duvall, who has handled all its affairs

The Secretary of War has recently struck a blow, The secretary of War has recently struck a blow most unwittingly, at this institution, which is really an integral part of the Army by relieving Lieutenant Duvali at a critical time and ordering him to rejoin his battery. No fault was found with Lieutenant Duvali in any regard, for he is highly esteemed everywhere on account of both his ability and his naturally polite and agreeable disposition and bearing. Everybody is therefore alarmed for the welfare of the Insurance Association, now in a critical period of its existence. Its "co-clicient of cohesion" is very slight, the sole strength being in the absolute confidence of the members in the integrity and capacity of their secretary and treasurer, Lieutenant Duvali, who serves in both capacities without extra pay or allowances and with the aid of only one clerk. New-York, Sept. 10, 1889.

A CORRECTION FROM MR. CATHCART.

To the Editor of The Tribune. Sir: In the interview with me published in you issue of yesterday, on the "School-book Trade," your reporter quite unintentionally gives an impression in the introductory paragraph, respecting the relations now existing between the publishers and agents, which is misleading. As stated by me in the interview, it is true that the publishers are endeavoring to reform abuses in their business growing out of the employ ment of travelling agents, which if successful will to a considerable extent involve the withdrawal of these travellers; but there is no concerted opposition the part of the agents to this movement, although some of them have shown a disposition to misrepre sent us. It will be readily perceived, on reading what I have said, that I did not mean to convey the im-pression that there is any "struggle" in progress between the publishers and their agents, or that there is any "movement on the part of the agents agains the publishers." I will mank you to publish this note, as I should regret to have it appear that in anything I have said on the subject injustice should be done to the agents as a class, many of whom I am happy to count as my personal friends. Yours truly,

MRS. LANGIRY'S REPORTED DIVORCE. Warying opinions were expressed yesterday among Mrs. Langtry's friends in regard to the report that she had secured a divorce in England. One of her intimate acquaintanges said that he thought the statement was not improbable. When Mr. Langtry was in this city a few months ago he had had conferences with his wife's representatives, and it was possible that he had been induced to ofter no opposition to the action. There was little doubt that Mrs. Langury would be married to Frederick Gebhard's a second as whether the control of the contro hard' as soon as she should be free, and they had been buying adjoining lands in California, and together owned buying adjoining lands in California, and together owned an enormous amount. Others, however, were inclined to discredit the story altogether, theugh no one was in a position to deny it positively. It was said that a dispatch had been received from Mrs. Langury's legal epresentative in California declaring that the report was

THE CLEVELANDS IN ALBANY SOCIETY.

THE CLEVELANDS IN ALBANY SOCIETY.

Prom The Boston Transcript.

There is any amount of looking at "society" from the outside. How does it look from the inside? What are the feelings of the 400 with reference to their own proceedings? Do the people engaged in their own proceedings? Do the people engaged in their own proceedings? Do the people engaged in their own well-but the state of the leaders of the small state of the leaders of the small aristocratic circle at Albany, N. Y. "society." as a verybody knows, has its outlying representatives sometimes even in small towns, and in Albany there happens to be a very select circle indeed—which seems to prove that even society people can sometimes see the humor of their proceedings.

"We are, as you know," said Miss X.—, "a very select circle at Albany. No one is ever admitted to our set except after the mathrest consideration and the fullest probation. Well, you may remember that some years ago Mr. Grover Cleveland, who had been Mayor of the city of Buffalo, was elected Governor of New-York. We at Albany did not know Mr. Cleveland. He came to the capital and established himself in the Governor's house, with his sister, Miss Rose Elizabeth Cleveland, to preside over the household. We found Miss Cleveland, so far as we had occasion to meet her, a very agreeable person; we saw, of course, in one way and another, something of the family; but one may be Governor of New-York and not be in Albany society. It is possible that we patronized Miss Cleveland a bit, but of course we did not do anything which was in the least like taking her into our set.

"Well, the last part of the winter of 1882-83, and the winter of 1882-84, during all of which the Cleve-patronized Miss Cleveland a bit, but of coars of an not do anything which was in the least like taking her into our set.

"Well, the last part of the winter of 1882-83, and the winter of 1883-84, during all of which the Clevelands were at Albany, went by; the autumn of 1884-81 and Grover Cleveland was elected President of the United States. That made the situation somewhat different. When we came together we canvassed the question a little whether Miss Cleveland should not now be taken into society. Mr. Cleveland was no ionizer merely Governor—he was President-elect, and his sister was to be the mistress of the White House. Even that, of course, by no means entitled her to be admitted into society; but we drew the line on the side of lentency, and toward the middle of winter a little delegation of an called at the Executive Mansion to invite Miss Cleveland to a little party which was tout an fair a society affair. That invitation was, naturally, the beginning of Miss Cleveland's existence in Albany. She had been in the city for two winters aircady, but she had not been in society. So in conveying the invitation to Miss Cleveland, I took occasion to remark:

"We are very giad to welcome you to Albany."

the invitation to Miss Cleveland, I took occasion to remark:
"We are very glad to welcome you to Albany, Miss Cleveland, and we hope you will pass a pleasant winter with us."
"I suppose that may have sounded queer to her: at any rate, she drew herself up a little felly and remarked:

"Thank you, Miss X—; but this is not my first winter in Albany."
"I made no reply except to raise my evelrows a little; but it was really very funny. You would have thought—though I really must say she carried it off very well—that we had been deficient in some duty theretofore, instead of conferring a favor, as we were doing. But sometimes the funny sides of these things will strike us, you know!"

OFF TO AFRICA TO SEE AN ECLIPSE.

THE PENSACOLA MAY BE FITTED OUT TO CARRY

THE EXPEDITION. At the last session of Congress an appropriation of $5,000 was made to defray the expenses of an expedition of scientists, who, under the auspices of the secretary of the Navy, are to be sent to the west coast of Africa to observe the total eclipse of the sun, which will be visible there on December 22. It has recently been fitted out as flag-ship to the Pacific Squadron, will be fitted out in the Brooklyn Navy new cruiser Baltimore, which was expected to make this her initial sea-cruise, has plenty of cabin and pedition and their subordinates, but she could not be made ready by October 1, about which time the party chief of the Eureau of Navigation; Captain R. L. Phythian, superintendent of the Naval Observatory; Professor Asaph Hall, of the Naval Observatory and Professor Simon Newcomb, superintendent of "The Nantical Almanac," has arranged the preliminary detalls. A Naval officer speaking on the subject yes terday said: "The conference has arranged that the expedition must sail as soon as October 1, and the vessel will be either the Pensacola or the Atlantaprobably the former. The expedition will be divide: into two parties, one of which will be under the supervision and direction of Professor Joseph Russel, of Washington, and the other under Professor Told, of raphy, and will have charge of the corps detailed to obtain photographs of the eclipse in its various The Government has obtained permission from the Portuguese Government, for the expedition from the Portuguese Government, for the expedition to land at St. Paul de Loanda, the capital of the Portuguese possessions on the west coast of Africa. Landing there the expedition will proceed inland to Maxima, on the Quanza River, where the two parties will separate and take up different stations near that point, and have all of their instruments set up and properly adjusted before the date of the cellipse. The line of the centre of totality will enter the coast at a point about 100 miles south of St. Paul de Loanda, and pass directly over the points where the stations will be. The expedition will probably not be absent more than three months."

ORANGE GROWERS COMBINING.

TO ESTABLISH A BIG AUCTION MART IN JACK-SONVILLE.

The directors of the Florida Orange Growers and Dealers' Protective Union met in this city yesterday and adopted resolutions looking to the establishment of a big auction market at Jacksonville, at which dealers from all over the country may purchase their fruit, as a substitute for the present commission system. E. L. Goodsell, of No. 103 Park Place, is president of the association, and dealers in every large-city in the North and West are represented on the board of directors. The growers complain that the commission merchants have stimulated heavier shipments than the Northern markets would bear, because when the glut care the losses fell upon the shippers. They insist that if they can force the dealers to buy in Jacksonville the latter will be careful about over uying, and that the risk of shipping overripe fruit will be obviated by the unpacking and inspection at Jacksonville. State Senator A. S. Mann, of Florida and Oswald Wilson, president of the Florida Farmers Alliance, are in this city representing the growers. They say that the largest growers in Florida are in say that the largest growers in Florida are is movement for a home market, and they are confi that enough Northern dealers will join to carr the thing through and stop shipments on commission.

They say that many of the New-York dealers promise to buy in Florida, though no one but Mr. Goodsell has yet joined the association.

THE STORY OF A STEPFATHER'S LOVE. An elderly man who was a passenger on a crosstown car was suddenly taken sick at Tenth-ave, and Eleventhst. at 5 p. m. yesterday. He was seen to gasp, and his head fell forward on his breast. Two men assisted him from the car and carried him to St. Vincent's Hospital. He was pronounced dead when he arrived there. There was nothing in his clothes by which he could be identified. About 9 o'clock last night William Holmes, of No. 743 Greenwich-st., called at the hospital and identified the an as his father-in-law, Edmond Taylor, age fifty, a eweller. He was once well off, but lately had been torking in a store. On Sunday, September 9, Louisa Hancock, his stepdaughter, was drowned while bathing in the Shrewsbury River at Red Bank, where she was pending the summer. Her death was a great shock to Taylor, and he has been grieving ever since. His son-in-
